SEOUL PAPERS REPORT . . .

U.S., No. Korea To Meet Again

New York Times Service

Seoul, South Korea — Seoul newspapers reported Saturday that United States and North Korean representatives had met at Panmunjon for four hours Friday and had agreed to meet again "in two or three days" on the Pueblo case.

"We have nothing to add to what the President said," a U.S. military spokesman declared Saturday, referring to President Johnson's statement in Washington that a second meeting had been held with the North Koreans, without "satisfactory results."

The newspaper, Hankook Ilbo, quoting "a very highly reliable government source," said Rear Adm. John V.

Smith, U.S. representative on the Military Armistice Commission, had met with his North Korean counterpart, Maj. Gen. Pak Chung-Kuk, in the truce village about 30 miles north of Seoul.

With Interpreters

The newspaper said the two delegates were accompanied only by their interpreters.

"The meeting reached no concrete agreement except to hold another meeting in two or three days," the newspaper said.

The United States had said Thursday it would be willing to hold talks with North Korea in Panmunjon in an effort to obtain the release of the Pueblo and its 83-man crew, seized Jan. 23.

Pledges Reaffirmed

The newspaper reports were published several hours after South Korean Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-ha announced that a "considerable number" of his nation's 16 allies in the Korean War had reaffirmed joint pledges to aid if there was another North Korean invasion.

Choi, addressing the national assembly, said countries reiterating their pledge of support "included Britain."

Countries participating on the South Korean side in the three-year war with at least token forces were the United States, United Kingdom, Australia, Belgium, Canada, Colombia, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, New Zealand, the Philippines, South Africa, Thailand and Turkey.

The 16 governments had issued a joint declaration at the time of the armistice in 1953 and again at a meeting in Geneva a year later that they would come to the assistance of South Korea again if there were another attack.

Choi added that Seoul had asked the "understanding and support" of other countries with whom South Korea has relations, including the "non-aligned states in Asia and Africa."

Rear Adm. Kim Yung-Kwan, South Korean chief of naval operations, disclosed Friday that he had been flown to the U.S. nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise for a three-hour conference Thursday with a "high-ranking U.S. admiral" on the naval phase of the current crisis.

Rural Poor Loan Total Is $817,700

Rural Nebraskans with poverty level incomes received a total of $817,700 in economic opportunity loans during the past 18 months, it was announced here Friday.

The state office of the Farmers Home Administration granted 357 loans from July, 1966, through Dec. 31, 1967, reported director Heasty W. Reesman. Two were obtained in Lancaster County and two in Saline County.

During the first 18 months of the program beginning in January, 1965, the agency loaned a total of $653,560 to 309 families in Nebraska.

Economic opportunity loans, administered under Title III of the Economic Opportunity Act, are available to low income persons living in rural areas and in towns under 5,500 population.

The money, which averaged $2,290 per loan during the 18-month period, is used to acquire tools, supplies, equipment and working space needed to earn a better living.

Nebraskans sought the financial help for such ventures as shoe repair, beauty salon, upholstery business, cafe, auto repair, day care agency, custom plowing, commercial hay hauling, painting service, carpentry and tree trimming, according to Reesman.

One loan even went for milk cows and pigs for a farm.

The largest amount awarded was $3,500.

The "most difficult hurdle these families face," Reesman explained, "has been the lack of money to equip themselves properly for profitable work."

Applications for the loans are submitted to one of the 36 county Farmers Home Administration offices in Nebraska.

The loans carry a 4½% interest rate and must be repaid within 15 years.

"We're not trying to provide a saving on the interest rate but offer credit since the families usually have been unable to borrow money elsewhere," according to program loan assistant Daren D. Ribblett.

The state office indicated it has not been affected by the recent cut-back in some Office of Economic Opportunity expenditures.

Humphrey: Job Corps 'Not Lost'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Omaha — Vice President Hubert Humphrey said Lincoln has not yet lost its Job Corps center and he will "do my best to be of help" in next week's reconsideration of the administration's decision to close the facilities.

Humphrey said Lincoln Job Corps officials, including W. A. Strauss of Omaha, president and chairman of the board of the sponsoring Northern Natural Gas Co., will meet with Sargent Shriver next week to discuss the closure order.

Shriver is director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Lincoln is "one of the better" Job Corps centers in the nation, the Vice President said, and "I'm keenly interested in it."

Humphrey's comments were taped for use on Omaha television station KETV Saturday night.

Asked for his comments on the closure during the interview, Humphrey said, "you haven't lost it yet."

"Not Politics"

Politics were not involved in the closure order, he said. But, he pointed out, "the same people who are now very unhappy about the possibility of losing the Lincoln Job Corps Center were dead opposed to the Job Corps program in the first place."

Humphrey said he seldom speaks of any state's senators and congressmen except in praise, and does not wish to be "unkind."

But, he noted, "the fact of the matter is that your people did oppose the Job Corps centers and made some rather derogatory comments" about the program.

"Speak To Congressmen"

Their support for the program "is not the price for the Lincoln Job Corps Center," the Vice President said, but "I urge you to speak to your congressmen" if you want them to support Job Corps centers.

Humphrey said he is particularly familiar with the Lincoln center because his sister has toured it.

"I'll pledge you I'll do my best to be of help," he declared.

Humphrey later met with Strauss before leaving Omaha by air.

Notes 'Repentance'

The Vice President told a Democratic Party rally Friday night that he is happy to see that some Nebraska Republicans who opposed the Job Corps program when it was initiated "have repented from their sins and now support it."

In a rousing partisan speech, Humphrey pleaded for de-escalation of party strife, which he described as "family squabbles."

Don't, he said, "put poison in the well from which you have to drink."

And, he suggested, "think of the terrible disappointment that will befall our opposition that all we were doing was getting in shape."

The record of the Johnson administration, will prevail, he said, when Americans discover that "our mistakes look better than Republican accomplishments."

JOB CORPS GIRL FAINTS BEFORE HHH

Omaha (UPI) — A pretty brunette Job Corps member, excited at meeting Vice President Hubert Humphrey, keeled over backwards in a faint Friday afternoon as Humphrey neared her.

"I've never had any girl do that before," Humphrey remarked.

Secret Service agents carried the girl to a sofa where she was soon revived.

Right Turn On A Red Light To Be Tried At 17th, South

Right turns on red lights will be permitted for eastbound traffic at 17th and South, reports City Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger.

He said the movement will not be indicated by the green arrow used at other intersections in the city where the right turn is permitted when through lanes are stopped.

Holsinger emphasized that only eastbound traffic on South St. can turn southbound on 17th on a red light. A "turn right after stopping" sign will be installed on the southwest corner of the intersection.

Holsinger said he is hesitant about permitting a widespread use of the turning movement elsewhere in the city because of a "rather inadequate road system."

Big Offensive Said Crushed

. . . Hue Citadel Airfield Taken

Saigon (P) — Widespread, savage fighting raged into the fifth day in key South Vietnamese cities Saturday.

The U.S. command reported 12,704 enemy had been killed since Monday evening in allied counterattacks that were said to be crushing the biggest Communist offensive of the war.

Civilians Flee

Fresh fighting broke out in parts of Saigon and masses of civilians were reported fleeing a battle in a northern suburb of the capital.

At Hue, the old Imperial capital far to the north, South Vietnamese forces reported capturing an airfield inside the city's walled citadel.

The Communists launched heavy ground assaults on at least six provincial capitals and district towns in the rice-growing Mekong Delta below Saigon and in the provinces just north of the city.

Da Nang Base Hit

Enemy gunners hit the U.S. air base at Da Nang with 40 rocket rounds. Damage to the base and its planes was reported light. It was the third attack on the base in the last five days.

It was disclosed the Viet Cong slew six American missionaries in the highlands. (Details on Page 2)

While the Communists still held areas of several cities and towns across the country, President Nguyen Van Thieu declared: "The back of the Viet Cong attack has been broken . . . We can consider they have been totally defeated."

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Thieu went on television to tell the people that the guerrillas and their North Vietnamese allies were being beaten with unparalleled losses.

The U.S. command reported Saturday that 12,704 enemy were killed in South Vietnam in the period from 6 p.m. last Monday through Friday midnight.

It said 661 South Vietnamese military and 318 U.S. military men were killed in the same period.

Blocked

The U.S. command reported heavy contact with the Viet Cong about daybreak Saturday in the Gia Dinh area on the northern edge of Saigon.

It said the enemy was blocked by a South Vietnamese force on the northeast and a U.S. force on the southwest.

The Viet Cong were said to be trying to escape past the South Vietnamese troops, some of them in small boats on the Saigon River.

At Hue, a main gate of the citadel was reported wrested from Communist control. The U.S. command said the enemy withdrew into the northern part of the old walled areas under repeated strafing and rocket raids by allied fighter-bombers.

Guns On Wall

Among the targets of the allied planes were anti-aircraft guns the Communists had mounted on the towers of the citadel's outer wall.

The allies reported killing more than 300 enemy in bitter fighting at Hue Friday.

The tremendous property damage from the enemy offensive was illustrated by a report from President Johnson on the aircraft toll at American fields. He said 15 planes and 23 helicopters were destroyed and about 100 other planes so severely damaged they would have to be replaced. The average cost of American warplanes is estimated at $2 million.

Food Runs Low

Food supplies in Saigon started to run low and prices soared. Authorities faced the problem of how to distribute reserve rice stocks through barricaded streets, with the Viet Cong still in parts of the city.

At the resort city of Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon, enemy machine-gun fire hit U.S. installations, the railroad station and a South Vietnamese army post.

At Xuan Loc, a provincial capital 38 miles east of Saigon, Communist troops swarmed in from two sides and hit at every allied compound in the city. American planes strafed the attackers.

Repulsed At Ben Tre

More than 500 enemy attacked allied positions in Ben Tre city, a provincial capital in the Mekong Delta. U.S. headquarters said the attack was repulsed after 5½ hours.

In Can Tho, another provincial capital and the largest city in the delta south of Saigon, mortar rounds set off several fires in the U.S. Special Forces compound near the airfield.

Headquarters said 300 Viet Cong were still scattered through Vinh Long, a provincial capital 45 miles southwest of Saigon.

Allied troops at Vinh Long said Viet Cong suspects being detained there were averaging between 13 and 14 years old and were carrying new weapons.

LBJ Says 'Uprising' A Failure

Washington (P) — President Johnson portrayed as a failure Friday what he termed the general uprising of Vietnamese Communists.

He said it may mean some adjustments but no change in basic strategy for the United States and no increase in combat troops at this time.

The President told a quick-called news conference he does not believe the Communists have scored a psychological victory, either.

No Proof

The chief executive said he has no proof but that practically every expert he has talked with believes there is a definite connection between the uprising of Vietnamese Communists and North Korea's seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo and its crew.

The President brought reporters into the Cabinet room at the White House to read them a statement on the Vietnamese situation and then turned to answering questions.

And Johnson said, as his military commanders have been saying: "We may at this very moment be on the eve of a major enemy offensive in the area of Khe Sanh and generally around the demilitarized zone."

Over and over, Johnson kept saying he wanted to play in a low key and not be unduly optimistic. And his words reflected this cautious approach.

Car Falls From Overpass; 3 Hurt

Police pulled three unidentified persons from a car that fell from a railroad overpass at 33rd and Sheridan early Saturday morning, two of them seriously hurt.

Witnesses at the scene, however, reported that there had been as many as five persons in the car.

The injured were rushed to St. Elizabeth Hospital, police said.

The car burst through the railroad overpass' guardrail, leaped a five-foot concrete abutment and fell to the Rock Island tracks, police reported.

SISTER MARY . . . new job, shorter dress.

Elementary Teacher:

Nun Joins ETV Staff

It may look like the new nunette working at Nebraska's educational television headquarters is wearing the same dress every day.

But no one will mind. The new staff member of the Nebraska Council for Educational Television is Sister Mary Kowalski, O.S.M., a nun with nine and a half years of teaching experience who has been active as a teacher in educational television projects.

Sister Mary, a graduate of Duchesne College in Omaha, has been teaching at Christ the King elementary school in Omaha for the last eight and a half years, and served as chairman of the committee for the television project on which she now will be employed.

She will be program development coordinator for Project ASERT (Available Supplemental Educational Resources by Television), which designs, develops and distributes materials for an enriched educational environment by "bringing resources of Nebraska into classrooms" through ETV and other media.

Sister Mary will be working on ASERT's "Challenge" and Head Start series, writing the scripts and producing the visual materials.

"Challenge" is a program designed to stimulate individual students' interest in independent projects. The Head Start ETV program is designed for students in primary grades who have graduated from Head Start.

Sister Mary will be "trying a new idea" this year, she reports, by producing the two programs with no TV teacher. "We're going to let the television camera be the teacher," she says.

Jerry DePrenger, coordinator of instructional television for the Nebraska Educational Television Network, said Sister Mary's "outstanding work as chairman of the 'Challenge' committee . . . and her enthusiasm for new ideas" make her "an ideal choice for the job."

And about the dress: Sister Mary's habit isn't the floor-length kind she's used to. For her new job she's wearing the new shorter version, a black skirt and black jacket.

U.S. Destroyer, Soviet Merchant Ship Collide

Washington (AP) — A Soviet merchant ship and a U.S. destroyer collided off Korea Wednesday in an incident the Pentagon apparently sought to minimize because of tension stirred by North Korea's recent seizure of the Navy ship Pueblo.

The Defense Department, disclosing the minor collision Friday, said the 10,000-ton

Kapitan Vislobokov and the 3,500-ton USS Rowan collided in the Sea of Japan at 12:53 p.m. CST Wednesday (3:53 a.m. Thursday, local time). At the time the vessels were about 95 miles east of Pohang, South Korea, and well south of the North Korean port of Wonsan where the intelligence ship Pueblo is held.

The Pentagon said the Rowan had the right of way but the State Department said the Soviet foreign ministry in Moscow protested the U.S. Embassy asserting the warship was in the wrong.

Neither ship reported any casualties but the destroyer emerged with a three-foot hole above the water line on her port bow.

"When queried by flashing lights, the Vislobokov signalled 'no assistance required' and 'damage to my stern two meters in length,'" the Pentagon reported. Two meters are a little over six feet.

No Link Seen

Later, defense officials told newsmen they believe the collision was in no way connected with the Pueblo incident — "except in the far-fetched way that had it not been for the Pueblo, the destroyer wouldn't have been in the area."

Officials refused to say what the destroyer's mission was or that it was one of the U.S. ships recently dispatched in a naval buildup off Korean shores.

The Vislobokov was reported en route from Japan to Vladivostok.

The Soviet ship's southerly course didn't seem to fit with its destination, Vladivostok to the north. But officials said in response to questions: "There was no circling around or harassing in the manner of the Pueblo incident whatsoever."

No Bothering

Nor was the Rowan bothering the Soviet ship, officers said.

Broader Bombing Urged

New York Times Service

Saigon (Agence France-Presse) — President Nguyen Van Thieu urged Friday an extension of the bombing of North Vietnam to cover all military objectives as a "punishment" for the present enemy offensive in the South.

Speaking in a television broadcast, Thieu said that in "order to save time" in clearing the Viet Cong out of occupied urban sectors, the armed forces would have to "act ruthlessly."

He expressed once again his opposition to the idea of a coalition government with the National Liberation Front political arm of the Viet Cong.

The president denied that the United States and South Vietnam were refusing to negotiate with Hanoi because the Viet Cong controlled too large a part of South Vietnam.

He said several times that an essential precondition of negotiations was reciprocity on the part of Hanoi.

He described the air raids on North Vietnam as a "defensive action" that would end only when the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong ended their aggression and terrorism in the South.

There was no doubt, he said, that North Vietnam would take advantage of any lull in the bombing to strengthen its positions.

6 American Missionaries Die In Attack

Saigon (AP) — The Christian and Missionary Alliance announced Friday that six American missionaries were slain in a Viet Cong assault against Ban Me Thuot, a provincial capital in the central highlands 160 miles north of Saigon.

Two other missionaries were wounded and one was captured.

The organization's mission buildings, including a leprosy sanatorium on the edge of the town, and two Vietnamese churches were destroyed.

The dead were identified as the Rev. Robert Ziemer, 49, Toledo, Ohio; the Rev. C. Edward Thompson, 43, and his wife, Ruth, 44, of New Kensington, Pa.; nurse Ruth M. Wilting, 42, Cleveland, Ohio; Leon C. Griswold, 66, White Plains, N.Y., and Griswold's daughter, Carolyn, 41.

Mrs. Ziemer was wounded. Hank Blood of the Wycliff Bible Translators was captured. His wife and children were released and are safe.

Sihanouk Says Reds Working Against Him

Phnom Penh, Cambodia (UPI)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk charged Friday that Vietnamese Communists were supplying weapons to inhabitants of Cambodian border areas, urging them to break away and form an independent state.

He warned that all Communist "traitors" would be shot. The Cambodian chief of state spoke as officials disclosed that the Communist insurgency against Sihanouk's neutral regime, previously limited to the northwest of the country, had spread to the northeastern province of Ratanakiri, bordering on Vietnam.

Viets 'Must Do More' In Ideological Conflict

Ripon, Wis. (UPI) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said Friday the people of South Vietnam are not "pulling their share of the load" in the ideological conflict against the Viet Cong. "It is in the villages and hamlets and in the hearts and minds of the South Vietnamese people that this conflict will really be won or lost," Romney told an audience of 1,000 at Ripon College.

The Republican presidential candidate, on the first day of a two-day campaign swing in Wisconsin, said the South Vietnamese "must do more."

Romney told the Ripon College audience the United States relies too much on the military effort in Vietnam, and not enough attention is paid to the social and political effort to build a nation.

It's Election Year For Sure; Groundhogs Straddle Fence

Lancaster, Pa. (AP) — "Spring's here—we can smell it," chortled one happy, fancy-dressed groundhog watcher.

"Not so," cried the rain-soaked follower of weather-beaten Punxsutawney Phil. "He saw his shadow during one brief instant of blinding sunlight at exactly 7:29 this morning and was frightened back into the earth."

Pennsylvania thus was split Friday by two different "official" groundhog predictions. Legend decrees that if the groundhog sees his shadow Feb. 2, winter will continue for six weeks more.

Stays Out

In the east, on Octorara Creek at nearby Quarryville, the famous furry weather animal, who has never had a name, poked his head out of a grey, rainy dawn and stayed above ground.

In the west, on the just-as-damp Gobbler's Knob, 400 soaked followers of Phil, who for 80 of the last 81 years saw his shadow, predicted more winter when the old groundhog ducked back into his burrow. "It's certain," said Sam Light, president of the Punxsutawney Club. "Winter stays."

Hee-Haw

Members of the Slumbering Groundhog Lodge of Quarryville hee-hawed, dancing their ancient spring ritual as they waved their odd top hats and let their sheet-covered long coats swish in the thin, wet wind.

"Now we'll see how big a phony Phil really is," said Robert W. Herr, Quarryville's so-called hibernating governor.

"Fog and clouds obscured the sun, and I know that winter's course is run," Herr said in rhyme. "Farmers will shortly till the ground, and sumptuous greens will now abound."

$12-Billion Program Planned To Revamp U.S. Air Defense

Washington (AP) — Defense officials plan to embark this year on a 10-year, $12-billion program to revamp U.S. air defenses against the threat of attack from bombers.

The major concern is the Soviet Union, which has only 155 intercontinental range bombers but has the choice, in view of the U.S. deployment of a missile defense, of developing an advanced manned bomber.

The Soviets aside, there is the chance other countries might try the bomber-route to offset U.S. missile superiority.

Attack From Cuba

"No matter how unlikely, we must also guard against a fighter-bomber attack from Cuba, and possibly other nations," Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told Congress Thursday in his annual military report.

The present U.S. defense against bombers consists of radar networks and squadrons of jet interceptors stationed around the United States and Canada.

This system was designed a decade ago before the Soviets switched from bombers to missiles.

Bases Vulnerable

The Soviet trend to missiles made U.S. ground radars and undefended jet bases vulnerable to an attack which could pave the way for a nuclear-armed bomber assault.

As one military expert in air defense put it: "They can get one helluva lot of megatons up to the perimeter of our defense."

McNamara said that after studying various alternatives it has been determined the air defense system should be reshaped — if what he called an "indispensable element" could be obtained.

Radar On Planes

The key to this, he said, is a radar which could be carried on a plane and from high altitudes, look down and detect invading bombers — flying low to evade land radars, even against the background of electronic "ground clutter" which fizzes up radar pictures.

"We now believe the required technology is within our reach," McNamara said.

The United States, he said, hopes to mount the radar in a plane known as AWACS — airborne warning and control system — and mate it with several redesigned, hopped-up F106 interceptors which would go out and shoot down enemy bombers.

Constant Lookout

The Pentagon would buy 20 to 30 AWACS planes to orbit the U.S. continent on a constant lookout for approaching enemy bombers.

If hostile aircraft were detected, the F106X interceptors would be ordered toward them. When close enough, the interceptors' own electronic system would lock on to the invaders and launch air-to-air missiles.

Some military men think the civilian planners were too concerned with possible savings and for the reason turned thumbs down on development of a brand new intercept for air defense — the supersonic F12 in particular.

King's Marchers Will Build Shanties

Atlanta, Ga. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says he will take his squatter army of the nation's poor to Washington this April and build a settlement of tumbledown shanties among the cherry blossoms to point up the plight of the needy.

The shanties—to "house the troops of hopeless and embittered poor"—are a part of King's strategy for the massive demonstration of militant nonviolence in his Poor People's Campaign.

"We'll build our shanties—literal broken-down shanties—to dramatize the day-to-day conditions of the way millions of people have to live," King said in an interview expanding on his plans for the march to Washington.

Johnson Questioned

At a White House news conference Friday, President Johnson was asked whether he would try to talk civil rights leaders out of the April march.

Johnson didn't answer directly, but said he would hope that energies could be directed in a more productive manner. He said he thought it might be more helpful to present views to Congress and added "we'll do all we can to work with all groups, see that their views are heard, considered and acted upon."

"We plan on staying until we get a response," he said. "If a response is not coming, we will escalate our methods. Disruptive measures will be used only as a last resort."

HHH: Peaceful Solution To Asian Crisis Wanted

... Urges Americans 'Not To Get Trigger Happy'

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer
Omaha — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey Friday urged Americans "not to get trigger happy" over North Korean seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo.

"We want a peaceful solution" to this newest Asian crisis, Humphrey told an overflow student audience at Creighton University.

America can use "diplomatic restraint" and still "stand firm" in its demands that the ship and its crew be released, the vice president said.

"We are not looking for another place to fight," he noted. "We do not want a second front... we want no further extension of any war."

Peaceful Solution
And that is why President Johnson is pressing for a peaceful solution through diplomacy to what Humphrey called "this very dangerous act."

Humphrey told a student questioner that he is unwilling to say publicly at what point the U.S. might resort to force in seeking return of the vessel and its men.

Humphrey voiced an emotional defense of U.S. policy in Vietnam, called for an increased effort to meet U.S. domestic problems, particularly in the cities, and warned that the Middle East may yet turn out to be "the real danger spot in the world."

The vice president defended the use of spy ships, such as the Pueblo, to electronically gather intelligence information throughout the world. The U.S. has five such ships, he said, while the Soviet Union uses 18 of them, one of which is cruising today off the coast of South Carolina. Another, Humphrey said, is tracking the U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise off the Korean coast.

Cause of Peace
"These ships serve the cause of peace," Humphrey suggested, by alerting both sides in the cold war as to the military movements of the other.

"We have to know what's going on in North Korea," Humphrey said, in order to secure the peace of South Korea.

Restraint efforts to seek a diplomatic solution to the Pueblo incident, the vice president told his student audience, has produced "one of the most difficult weeks in our national life."

In Vietnam, he said, this week's attack on 38 major population centers by Viet Cong suicide squads was "designed to produce a popular uprising" among the South Vietnamese.

And it failed, the vice president said.

Fatalities among the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attackers have reached more than 10,000, according to intelligence information which he received only hours earlier, Humphrey said.

The vice president said the U.S. must pursue its present course in Vietnam in order to meet its treaty commitments and "in our own national interest."

If the U.S. does not have "the stamina to prevent banditry and violence and aggression in the world, who do you think can or will?" Humphrey asked.

"Blessed are the peacemakers," he stressed, "not the talkers and the walkers."

Answers Critics
To critics who say that the war prevents domestic progress, Humphrey said he is "not at all sure that if we had no war, we would be doing the things you and I want done."

There was no major effort to meet domestic problems once the Korean conflict ended, Humphrey noted, instead, there was only a tax increase.

When the Vietnam War is finished, the vice president said, "I will invite you to join me in expanding efforts to rebuild America."

The question then, he suggested, will be: "Are you willing to pay the price?"

Humphrey said America needs to do more now to meet the problems of poverty, unemployment, housing and urban decay, and its investment abroad in foreign aid is "totally inadequate."

As for the wavering popularity of the Johnson administration, as indicated in opinion polls, Humphrey said:

"Popularity is a wicked toxicant for men who have responsibility. It is all right for movie stars. But presidents need to be right."

Humphrey: U.S. Should Become 'Opportunity', Not Welfare, State

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer
Omaha—Vice President Hubert Humphrey Friday said the U.S. should not be turned into a welfare state, but rather transformed into "a state of opportunity for every person who wants an opportunity."

Domestic programs, at the federal, state and local levels, should be tailored to make every American citizen "an active participant in the affairs of this society," he said.

Humphrey told an Omaha Chamber of Commerce luncheon gathering that the nation can "break the back of juvenile delinquency" if it can find 200,000 jobs for hardcore unemployed youth.

'Explosive'

The largest age group of unemployed is from 16 to 22, the vice president said, and "youth power is very explosive" when it is not applied to a job.

Humphrey plugged hard for employment programs as chairman of the President's Youth Opportunity Council.

"But I am not trying to sell the Youth Opportunity program as a riot-control program," he stressed.

"We cannot assure you that if you provide jobs, you still won't have trouble. But if you don't, you can rest assured that you will have trouble."

Omaha Praised

Humphrey praised the Omaha chamber for its successful 1967 summer employment program and urged it to "redouble your efforts" for the summer of 1968.

The "rising expectations" of developing nations is a factor at work in American ghettos too, he noted.

And there will "not be a world at peace for long if we do not close the gap between the rich and the poor," the vice president warned.

Humphrey urged local and state government to "crack

Icy Bridge Blamed For Fatal Crash

Papillion (P) — The 15-year-old daughter of an Offutt Air Force Base officer was killed Friday in a one-car accident about four miles east of Papillion on Nebraska 370.

State Trooper M. P. DeLong said the victim, Karen Cockrum, was riding in a car driven by her sister, Kathleen, 17, when it hit a patch of ice on a bridge and plunged about 20 feet into a ravine, landing on its top.

The girls, daughters of Maj. and Mrs. James Cockrum, Omaha, were on their way to classes at Papillion High School.

Interstate Crash Kills Blair Man

A Blair man was fatally injured in a one-vehicle highway accident Friday night just southwest of Omaha, the State Patrol reported.

Dead was Emil J. Block, 43. He apparently lost control of his pickup, which was towing a jeep, on an Interstate 80 overpass one mile east of Route 50.

The vehicles plunged through the bridge railing and fell 58 feet, according to the State Patrol.

A second occupant of the pickup, who Patrol authorities declined to identify, suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Nebraska's April Cancer Crusade Chief Is Chosen

Larry C. Price of Lincoln has been named chairman of the Nebraska State Cancer Crusade to be held in April.

The appointment of Price, president of King's Food Host U.S.A., was announced by Dr. Henry Lemon, Nebraska division president of the American Cancer Society.

The crusade's goal for 1968 is $305,000, Price and Lemon said. Price said the crusade is both an educational campaign to warn the public of cancer's danger signals and a fund raising endeavor.

Price is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan University and served on the NWU board of governors. He was chairman of the YM-YWCA Building Fund Drive and is state treasurer for the Nebraska Fellowship of Christian Churches.

Med Students Sampling Practice In Small Towns

Omaha — Twelve sophomores at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine will spend this weekend in small communities in outstate Nebraska to sample medical practice there.

The students, and in most cases their wives, will be guests of the local practitioners. Each student will be an almost constant companion of the host doctor. He will be present during office visits, accompany the physician on hospital rounds, and even make house calls with the doctor. If the doctor has to perform surgery or deliver a baby, the student will observe it.

The student's wife will also taste the life of the rural doctor's wife. Each couple will join in their hosts' social activities for the weekend.

Host doctors are all members of the American Academy of General Practice.

Students, their home towns and the physicians they will visit are: Clifford Joseph Anderson, Napa, Calif.; Dr. Clarence Zimmer, Friend; Dale B. Anderson, Omaha; Dr. Kenneth Dalton, Genoa; Roger Bower, Scribner; Dr. John C. Schutz, Tecumseh; Robert Buckland, Omaha; Dr. John Farner, Valentine; Louis Burgher, McCook; Dr. Donald Morgan, McCook; James Call, Omaha; Dr. Roger M. Mason, McCook; Herman Gerhardt, Fairbury; Dr. Dwight Larson, North Platte; Roderick Harley, Grand Island; Dr. Edward Steenburg, Aurora; Allen Hohensee, Lincoln; Dr. Alfred Glig, Bassett; Kenneth Pestors, Henderson; Dr. D. E. Metcalf, Gordon; Thomas Tinstman, Lincoln; Dr. Raymond Olson, Alliance; and William Wignall, Wymore, Dr. C. S. Ashby, Geneva.

The immediate purpose of "sophomore weekend" is to help the students in the selection of their five-week preceptorship, a period in which a student associates with an outstate physician and experiences the problems and challenges of rural practice.

The ultimate goal is to encourage the students to return to the small communities to practice after completion of their education. Each of the communities being visited this weekend has a population of less than 20,000.

Court: Newspaper May Be Printed Elsewhere

By Associated Press
The State Supreme Court held Friday that a newspaper may be printed outside its home county by the offset process without losing its status as a legal newspaper in its home county.

Specifically, the court held that the Wilber Republican, a legal newspaper in Saline County, may be printed on offset presses of the Wymore Arbor State Newspaper in Gage County and continue to be a legal newspaper in Saline County.

The judgment affirmed that of the Gage County District Court in a suit brought by the Wymore newspaper against Milo Korinek and others, doing business as the Wilber Republican. The newspapers had entered into a contract under which the Arbor State would print the Wilber Republican but under which the contract would terminate if the arrangement deprived the Wilber newspaper of its standing as a legal newspaper in Saline County, eligible to carry official legal notices.

Under question was the section of law which states that a legal newspaper must "be printed, either in whole or in part, in an office maintained at the place of publication."

The court held that the process under which the Wilber Republican prepared its master pages at its home plant and took them to Wymore for reproduction by the offset lithography process did not violate the printing requirement.

"We think the Legislature intended to provide for notice by means of a local newspaper where possible," said the opinion written by Justice Hale McCown. "and that in the contemplation of the Legislature, a local newspaper was one having an office in the county in which the material for publication would be gathered, organized, arranged and edited, and from which office the ultimate publication would be issued and distributed.

"We do not believe the Legislature intended to prohibit doing the mechanical acts of printing or reproduction outside the county. The place of mechanical reproduction bears no vital relationship to the underlying problem of notice.

In other rulings Friday, the court:

— Affirmed the Gage County District Court conviction of Eugene Paul Oziah on two counts of robbery.

Oziah was one of three men accused of entering the Arlin F. Blome farm home near Clatonia a year ago, tying up the family members and escaping with certain money and property.

Oziah contended the evidence did not establish that he personally committed the acts which constitute the essential elements of robbery. But the Supreme Court said the evidence "establishes beyond any question that the defendant was an active participant with the other two men in the commission of the crime."

— Upheld the Lancaster County District Court in finding that Robert P. Stephens in a suit in which Stephens sued his own insurer, Allied Mutual Insurance Co., under an "uninsured motorist provision" to collect for auto accident damages from an individual whose own liability insurer became insolvent.

— Ordered a new trial of the Douglas County District Court suit in which police officer Guy F. Pensyl sued Bernard N. Gibb and others for injuries suffered when hit by Gibb as Pensyl directed traffic following an accident at 52nd and Dodge Sts. in Omaha. A jury returned a verdict for Gibb, the defendant, but the Supreme Court said instructions to the jury had been faulty.

— Affirmed the Gage County District Court in modifying the terms of a divorce granted Donald Van Eperen from Betty Jane Van Eperen with respect to custody of two minor children.

— Refused to disturb a Jefferson County District Court jury verdict in favor of George E. May and others, defendants in a suit brought by Stanley E. Kasparick and others to collect damages for flooding blamed by plaintiffs on alleged failure of defendants to remove a dike near the Little Blue River.

— Upheld the Seward County District Court in awarding Leo J. Deremer and others a judgment for $31,000 against the state as compensation for the state's taking of a strip of land for highway purposes. The state had appealed.

— Made a slight technical modification but generally upheld the Buffalo County District Court in finding for Mid-States Engineering in a suit brought against earth contractor Vernon Rohde in a dispute over money to be paid under a contract involving construction of two earthen dams.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Shop For Elders' Products Eyed

By ROBERT PETERSON
Q.—"I'd like to start a little business to supplement my Social Security, and am thinking of launching a commission shop, stocked entirely by products made by folks past 65 years of age. Do you think it might succeed?"

A.—It's doubtful. Even New York City's famed Elder Craftsman Shop has to be heavily subsidized. The problem seems to be that relatively few elders know how to make saleable items, and those who do are generally unable to turn them out in sufficient quantity and at low enough prices to make retail sales profitable.

Q.—"When our parents retired we got so tired hearing them complain about their tiny city apartment that we three children pooled our resources and bought them a small house at the edge of town with garden and lawn. Now they complain about having too much to take care of and being bored to death. What do we do now?"

A.—Better help them move back to town. Many city dwellers think they'd enjoy retiring to pastoral locales with lots of elbow room. But after giving it a try they discover it's hard to beat a compact city apartment close to the supermarket and within earshot of police sirens and family arguments next door.

Q.—"You should urge folks to get acquainted with adult education courses in their communities. These courses are often free and you meet so many interesting people. I've just signed up for three subjects—Spanish, wood working, and short-story writing. Last year I took two semesters of typing — what a relief, at 66, to learn to type without using the hunt-and-peck system."

A.— Good suggestion — let's hope others along in years are inspired by your comments. To find what adult education courses are offered in your area, inquire at your local YMCA, public library, or high school. You might also write to the extension service of your state university.

Q.— "I'm 68, a retired shoe salesman, live alone in a new apartment, and am perfectly content. I don't do anything spectacular, but I revel in the coziness of my place and the pleasant feeling of being alive and independent. Is there something wrong with me that I don't want the companionship and activity most elders are said to crave?"

A.— No, and your letter is a solid reminder that many elders live alone and like it. Age often brings a changed perspective, and while we may have cringed from being alone and inactive in earlier years, a declining physical vigor and a new point of view sometimes combine to make a solitary existence very desirable in old age.

Exon Favors Partisan Legislature

By ODELL HANSON
Associated Press Writer
The Lincoln Democrat whose lawsuit blocked a vote of Nebraskans on the partisan Legislature issue some three years ago said Friday he's not likely to undertake any such challenge this year.

James J. Exon, businessman and Democratic Party vice chairman, said he strongly favors a partisan Legislature.

"I'm convinced," he said, "that if you're going to have responsible political action in Nebraska, the best way to go would be with a partisan legislature, and let the majority and the minority do battle and hammer out good bills."

An affidavit and petition form for an initiative drive to place on the November general election ballot a constitutional amendment changing the Unicameral from a nonpolitical to a party-label body was filed Thursday with the secretary of state.

The Republican Party has taken the lead in the effort.

Four years ago Republicans, with some Democratic help, pursued a similar effort and actually filed petitions by the deadline date. But Exon challenged the sufficiency of the petitions in court and won the case.

Exon said that in the 1964 litigation, he was not opposing a vote on the partisan legislature issue as such, but was contending that the Republican Party had violated the law time and again in obtaining signatures. He said 18-year-olds had been used to circulate petitions, signers were not told what they were signing, petitions were not notarized and other errors were made.

Although he does not plan a challenge this time, Exon said he hopes the current drive won't be "fumbled and bungled."

Exon said he has respect for Bruce Hagemaster of Hemingford, chairman of the sponsoring Committee for Partisan Legislature and hopes he and other persons running the campaign "will do it legally."

Exon said that if he ever favored the non-partisan legislature "I got full to the gills with it" in the last campaign when "one after another of so-called nonpartisan legislators" became "intensely involved" in partisan political activities.

"I just feel that if you're going to have nonpartisan legislators, they should be nonpartisan," he said. "And if they're going to be partisan, they should be partisan."

Exon said he sees no early chance of Democrats becoming the majority party in a partisan Legislature, but "at least the Republicans would have to account for their actions—Democrats, too — and this is the way our democracy has been built."

Tiemann: Industries' Interest In Nebraska Is Picking Up

By United Press International
Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann Friday reported manufacturers' interest in locating in Nebraska is picking up as a result of his trips to trade fairs around the nation.

The governor returned from Philadelphia, Pa., late Wednesday night from the automotive conference. It was the third "sell Nebraska" trip he has made since fall.

James Monroe, director of the Department of Economic Development, who has accompanied the governor on the trips, said "it is now up to us to cultivate that interest."

Tiemann will address the Automotive Presidents Council Feb. 21 in conjunction with the International Automotive Service Industries Show. The invitation is an indication of the growing interest in Nebraska, he said.

The Department of Economic Development will have an exhibit at the show.

At his weekly news conference, Tiemann introduced Art Bryan, former president of the Consumers Products Division of Union Carbide, who will work with the Department of Economic Development "to make contacts" with industrial leaders.

Bryan, a native Nebraskan and guest lecturer at the University of Nebraska, said the state's industrial development program is moving in the right direction.

Since he took over the paper route a year ago, Wendell has been able to save a tidy sum part of which he plans to spend on Boy Scout

A student at Everett Junior High School, the young Lincolnite likes to go bicycling with his twin brother in his spare time.

Other favorite activities include swimming, canoeing and participation in the Boy Scout program.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wendling, say that having a paper route has helped their son mature and has taught him thrift and how to meet people.

Supt. Prash Says:

Teachers Have Least Equipment

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Classroom teachers have a smaller amount of equipment to perform their jobs than anyone in the American economy, Lincoln school Supt. John Prash told the Kiwanis Club here Friday.

The shortage of teaching tools probably can be traced to the absence of immediate results with the addition of such machines, Prash said.

"In other work we can see immediate results such as the effect on per unit cost. But in teaching the addition of machines does not result in an immediate change, such as the cost of the product—an educated child."

At the same time, the new superintendent pointed out,

PRASH... machines can increase cost.

those who advocate jumping into new thresholds of education such as computer teaching have "completely overlooked the economics involved.

"True, the hardware exists," at a cost of millions of dollars, "but the child using it still needs a teacher and a building," he declared.

Supplying the machine actually increases the need for a better-trained teacher and supplementary staff to help the teacher, such as in programming the computer.

The expensive equipment, Prash added, would triple the education cost for each child.

The former Racine, Wis., superintendent and regional education research agency director told some 160 Kiwanians that "public education has done well under local control."

He indicated that "we should fight to keep it" but certain responsibilities accompany the power.

For the best education locally controlled, the community has to be "openminded," responsibly objective in recognizing the importance for all children to get as good of an education as Lincoln students do, place "trust in specialists," and be willing to commit enough time to become informed about issues before making decisions.

Prash praised the changing attitude of business and industry in their regard for education.

"We realize the creation of new markets depends on raising every individual to the point where he can become a consumer... The entire system moves forward as we bring every individual upward."

Runaway Trusty Back In Custody Of Penal Officials

A 40-year-old state prison trusty who walked away from a work detail at the Kearney Boys' Training School Tuesday was back in the custody of Penal Complex authorities Friday.

Authorities said Carl G. Miller was released to Nebraska officials by the Council Bluffs, Iowa, Police Department.

On May 11, 1966, Miller began a four-year sentence from Douglas County for forgery.

He was one of several penitentiary inmates doing maintenance and repair work at the Kearney institution.

'Tobacco Road' Stage Set Superb

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The Lincoln Community Playhouse production of "Tobacco Road" is probably as close as most Lincolniters will ever come to Appalachian poverty — and the superb stage set was close enough for the audience at Friday's opening.

The action of the play takes place at the eGorgia home of a poverty-stricken farm family.

Jeeter Lester has farmed the place for the last fifty years and his father and grandfather farmed it before him, but he hasn't planted a crop since his landlord died seven years before.

It takes quite an effort to portray well such a situation. The quality of the scenic design and the makeup design were responsible for a good deal of the effectiveness of the production.

The ramshackle hut that the Lesters call home plus the filth and degradation built into the run-down corner and picket fence are worthy tributes to the art of scenic design.

Special credit should go to Marie Muffley for make-up, Joe Miller for costumes and Jo Ann Bennett for lighting as well as to Jerry Anderson for the set.

Make-up and costumes were responsible for realistic portrayals of age in some of the players and for the poverty of the people on tobacco road—both of which were necessary for the realism of the situation.

Special mention must be given to Garnett Bond for her portrayal of Grandma Lester, the decaying mother of Jeeter Lester.

Her part, though having no lines, added perhaps the most to the portrayal of the poverty of the characters in the play.

Adapted from Erskine Caldwell's novel, the play "Tobacco Road" is perhaps repulsive, more than anything else, to an audience.

But the play's ugliness — an ugliness that rightly saturates the Community Playhouse production — may be the most important part of the play's message to affluent America.

The play may be seen at the Playhouse, 18th and L, at 8:30 p.m. on Feb. 3, 9, 10, 16 and 17 and at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 11 and 18.

Shopping Centers Affect Older Districts

By BOB SCHREFF
Star Staff Writer

New shopping center development in the next 17-year period will have a telling effect on older suburban shopping districts, according to the Hammer report, the land economics study ordered by the City Council.

"The data indicate that new outlying shopping centers can be phased-in the retail pattern as market potential expands without causing a serious adverse impact on sales performance in existing retail areas," the report observed.

"However," it said, "the data indicate that should the phase-in occur too soon, the impact on existing centers would be very substantial."

The report recommended a schedule for the addition of 1,150,000 square feet of new retail floor space between 1970-85, starting with the addition of 150,000 square feet in the period 1970-71.

Since receiving the Hammer report, the City Council has approved zoning for development of a 350,000 square foot shopping center at 52nd and R.

Now pending before the council are zoning requests by M. E. Shaffer to accommodate a 210,600 square foot shopping center at 56th and Old Cheney Road; by Sears, Roebuck for a 150,000 square foot center at Gateway and by Larry Price, for a 100,000 square foot development at 48th and Van Dorn. These, with 52nd and R, would total 810,000 square feet.

These developers' plans contemplate beginning construction within a 2-3 year period and phasing it to complete construction of their square footage around 1975.

The Hammer report does not envision the addition of 810,000 square feet of new retail floor space by 1975, but only 500,000 square feet by that time. So the report does not account for the impact of accelerated development.

However, the report projects the distribution of store-type sales, 1970-85, in 21 established areas assuming no new shopping areas; the projected impact of a 150,000 square foot center near Gateway on the 1966 sales pattern in 1970 and the projected impact of six new shopping centers on the existing sales pattern, assuming the recommended phased development.

Taking four selected areas from the 21 existing commercial districts, here are the store-type sales projections, assuming no new shopping centers:

	1970	1975	1980	1985
Central business district (CBD)	$82.1	$99.9	$97.6	$105.3
Gateway	25.6	34.7	42.3	49.9
University Place	9.5	13.4	17.8	24.6
College View	4.5	6.4	8.5	11.7

Diversion Charted
The sales diversion in 1970, assuming location of a 150,000 square foot center near Gateway:

	Millions
CBD	$77.7
Gateway	38.4
University Place	8.0
College View	4.2

"The most significant impact by 1970 would be on the central business district. When the hypothetical center became fully operational, the impact would involve a diversion of sales from downtown of about $4.4 million annually," the consultants' claim.

"However, even more importantly," the report said, "the new center would divert significant shares of the potential growth of the remaining retail areas."

The study then assumes the addition of six new centers by 1985 located, but not specifically, near the Interstate, Cornhusker Hwy., southwest, south, No. 48th and the northwest industrial area. The Hammer report projects the following sales diversion resulting from the addition of the new suburban centers as market potential increases:

	1975	1980	1985
CBD	$65.8	$90.3	$90.0
Gateway	47.8	68.8	77.0
University Place	8.4	7.0	7.9
College View	4.5	3.4	3.8

NBC Talks To Lincoln Center Job Corpsmen

A news team from the National Broadcasting Company (NBC) was in Lincoln Friday preparing a segment of the Huntley-Brinkley news program for viewing Monday night.

Ellis Rall, Lincoln Job Corps Center public affairs official, said the NBC team was in Lincoln in the wake of the announcement that the Lincoln Center would be closed.

Rall said the interviews with Lincoln Job Corpsmen would be shown as a follow-up to a previous NBC news highlight of the Lincoln Center's program.

The Lincoln Center was the only center where NBC was conducting interviews since the shutdown order, Rall said.

4-Year-Old Boy Struck By Car, Injured Slightly

A car-pedestrian accident near 30th and Vine late Friday morning resulted in minor injuries to a 4-year-old Lincoln boy, according to police.

Authorities said Timothy R. Draper, of 821 No. 30th, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital for observation after a mishap involving a car driven by Ralph R. Morgan, 23, of 3543 Kingsley.

Police said the Darper boy was crossing Vine St. and Morgan's auto was eastbound on Vine at the time of the accident.

$50,000 Damage Suit Registered In Fatal Mishap

A $50,000 damage suit was filed in Lancaster District Court Friday by the widow of Lancaster County's bridge superintendent who was killed in an accident at a county road intersection Jan. 12, 1967.

Mrs. Esther M. Hagan, executrix of the estate of her late husband, Arthur L. Hagan, named Verle G. Harris and Lancaster County as defendants in the action.

She alleges negligence on the part of the defendant, Harris, who was the driver of a car which allegedly struck the county car Mr. Hagan was driving at an intersection two and one-half miles east and one mile north of Denton.

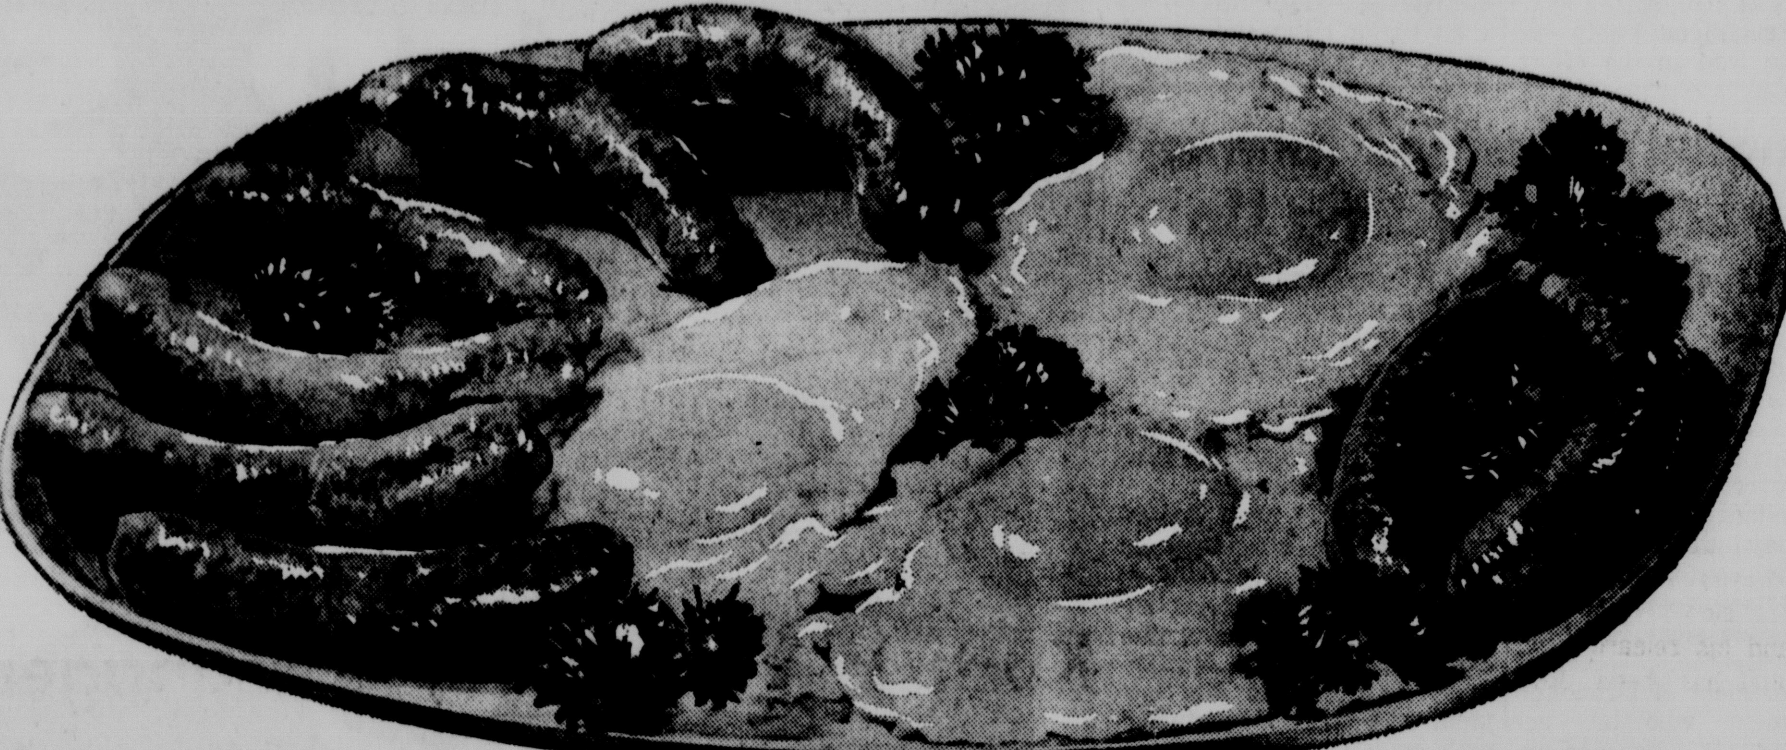

According to the petition, the defendant failed to maintain proper lookout, to stop to avoid the collision and was travelling at an excessive rate of speed.

Nixon Declines Romney Debate

Manchester, N.H. — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, displaying the confidence of a fighter on familiar territory, opened his New Hampshire primary campaign Friday by ruling out debates with Gov. George Romney of Michigan.

Nixon said he had decided that debates would not be in the best interest "of the objectives to which both Gov. Romney and I are deeply dedicated."

Both men are seeking the Republican presidential nomination.

Romney's Idea
Romney, considered to be Nixon's chief rival in the nation's first presidential primary here March 12, recently challenged Nixon to a series of debates.

Nixon also said he would not enter primaries in states where favorite sons were involved. Entering them, he said, would assure the loss of such states in November.

Victory for the Republican Party this year, Nixon said, was "more important than the ambition of one man." He said he believed that his background and experience made him the candidate "who can win and can do the job."

Impressive Launching
The launching of Nixon's campaign was by far the most impressive of any so far this year.

Nixon made jokes at his own expense, and there was none of the scowling and pounding of fist into palm of earlier campaigns.

Asked if he represented a "new Nixon," the former vice president said he had given much thought to the question and decided that he was "confident without cockiness" about campaigning this time. After the primary March 12, Nixon said he would run in Wisconsin, Indiana, South Dakota and Oregon. He said he had talked to the governors — or their aides — of Pennsylvania, California, Ohio and Massachusetts and assured them that he would not enter primaries in their states.

Brave British Belle's Braless Blouse Boggler

By GRANVILLE WATTS
London (AP) — British males, attuned to mini-skirted girls, lifted their sights to higher things Friday as the braless see-through blouse hit London. The new fashion was unveiled, so to speak, at a boutique on London's Carnaby Street, where three girl assistants wore no bras under low-cut chiffon blouses.

They also wore black miniskirts and thigh-high boots — not that anyone was looking at those. In no time at all, the boutique had attracted a large number of potential customers and interested males.

"I do feel a little embarrassed wearing it," said one of the shop girls, 19-year-old Marlene McDonald of Toronto. "It's a bit of a shock to look up and see a man looking straight at you — but not in the eyes," Marlene said. "I would never wear one outside in the street. But I might at a swinging party when there were other girls in the same predicament."

Barnard Says Release Of Blaiberg Postponed

Paris (UPI) — Heart surgeon Dr. Christian Barnard said Friday his surviving heart transplant patient, Dr. Philip Blaiberg, has recuperated more slowly than expected and his release from the hospital has been postponed.

News Said Free From Reply Rule

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission said Friday its rule guaranteeing a person equal time to reply if he is criticized on a broadcast does not apply in the future to bona fide newscasts or on-the-spot coverage of a news event.

"The FCC stood by its ruling that radio and television stations were required to give equal time to targets of personal attacks made in editorials, news documents or interview shows."

The FCC said its "fairness doctrine" justified exempting bona fide newscasts and news coverage at the scene.

Commissioner Robert T. Bartley dissented from the order, maintaining that the fairness doctrine is in the process of being perfected case by case and that codification by rule was "premature."

$429,000 Asked In Accident Suit

Omaha (AP) — Damage suits seeking a total of $429,760 have been filed in Federal District Court by the widow of an Estes Park, Colo., trucker who was killed in a collision near the Beaver Crossing interchange of Interstate 80 on Dec. 10, 1966.

Mrs. John Dorman Jr., the mother of nine children, filed suit asking $175,740 for the death of her husband and a suit asking $254,019 on behalf of her son, Toby, 6, who she alleges was injured permanently in the accident.

Named in the suit was Sherman P. Gosker and Bell Creek, Inc., of Arlington, Neb.

The suit charges that the cattle van Gosker was driving for Bell Creek developed transmission trouble and that he stopped on the right lane of the highway. The suit alleges there were no flares put out when a truck driven by Dorman crashed into the van.

Australian Aid To Viet War Said At Limit

Sydney — Australia will make no further increase in its military commitment in South Vietnam, Prime Minister John Gorton said Friday.

At a press briefing in Canberra, he said, "As far as I am concerned it's a permanent statement."

Gorton said neither the South Vietnamese nor the American governments had asked Australia for more military aid.

His statement reinforced the line he has taken since he became prime minister Jan. 10 that Australia already had committed to the defense of Southeast Asia as much as a nation with 12 million population and problems of internal development can afford.

Australia now has more than 8,000 men in South Vietnam in ground and air units.

Gold Reserves Rise In Britain

London — A brighter note in Britain's external financial position was sounded Friday when the treasury announced that reserves of gold and convertible currencies had risen almost $53 million in January to $2.7 billion.

The increase indicates that, following the extraordinary outflows that culminated in devaluation Nov. 18, funds are flowing back into London for investment, trading and commercial deals. Volume, however, is still below normal.

WILLSON . . . asks for '76 Trombones' one more time.

'Music Man' Here For Music Weekend

By DAN DICKMEYER
Star Staff Writer

Harold Hill flew into Lincoln Friday. He came disguised as Meredith Willson, the creator of the Broadway musical comedy, "The Music Man."

In less time than it took the musical's super-salesman lead character, Harold Hill, to convince unsuspecting residents of River City (the story's locale) that they needed a boy's band, Meredith Willson was leading the University of Nebraska marching band which had come to welcome him.

The band played Willson's own "76 Trombones"—minus 72 trombonists—as startled airline passengers filed by the brass band with quizzical expressions.

Willson said, "One more time," and led the band through a lively rendition of "There Is No Place Like Nebraska."

"You know," Willson said, with a glint of Hill in his eye, "they still haven't invented a music holder for a marching piccolo player."

Willson really knows his territory. At a press conference following his brief concert he told newsmen, "I really enjoyed that band. If the quality of these representatives is an example, you people really take to music here." He probably could have sold 20 band uniforms right on the spot.

A two-time winner of the New York Drama Critics award and author of five books, Willson is in town "to answer questions and attend all sessions" of the University of Nebraska's seventh annual Weekend of Music Saturday. He is guest composer and will address an audience following a noon luncheon in the Nebraska Union ballroom.

Like Harold Hill, Willson, a former flutist with John Philip Sousa and the New York Philharmonic, is concerned that all people be reached by music. He has served as an appointed member of President Johnson's Humanities Council of the National Foundation on Arts and Humanities.

"I'm not concerned with how to reach the erudite few, but the unwashed many," Willson said. "I think in terms of audience and people."

Willson said he is theatrical and basically non-academic. He said the Council should not be composed only of Phi Beta Kappa and university presidents. The Council, he said, at least at its outset, should make a dramatic effort to reach the people.

"I would like to have seen the ellipsis at Diamond Head in Hawaii turned into a gigantic amphitheater for an annual or even weekly presentation of the story of America," Willson explained.

He described the American saga as a "gigantic project of pageantry and drama."

The creator of "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" and "Here's Love," Willson has been working four years on a musical which will be produced this fall or the following spring.

Refusing to reveal the plot line of the musical, Willson slyly said the title is "1491" and that he anticipates difficulty in filling the lead role.

"If anyone ever knew the territory, it was Columbus," Willson joked. "Everybody in the audience thinks it's a ridiculous idea and nobody knows he has a chance of succeeding except the audience. The curtain goes down just before he sets sail."

Kurtz Is Very Effective Manager, Claims Steen

By The Associated Press
State Game Commission Director Mel O. Steen Friday called John Kurtz — the director of the Fort Robinson State Park and the subject of a petition in the Crawford area calling for his ouster — a "very effective manager."

"We have no intention of transferring him," Steen said. "And we have no complaints about his services."

Sailor From Polk Is On Enterprise

Polk (UPI) — Dennis Widga, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Widga, is a quartermaster on the Navy ship Enterprise in waters off North Korea.

Widga, 21, was assigned to the ship on Jan. 3 when it left for the Hawaii and Japan areas.

The 1965 graduate of Polk High School enlisted in the Navy in September of 1966 and took training in Omaha, San Francisco and San Diego.

Early Hearing Is Asked To Retest Trade School Act

Parties to a suit challenging the constitutionality of the 1965 state area trade school law Friday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to advance the case for early hearing.

They said a swift decision is imperative because local taxes are being levied for the support of regional vocational-technical schools at Hastings and North Platte.

Judge S. S. Sidner of the Red Willow County District Court ruled last November that the law, which provides for up to $100,000 in state matching funds to build an area school, is constitutional.

The finding was appealed by a group of Red Willow County businessmen and taxpayers who claim the law is invalid.

Area Vocational-Technical School No. 2, which covers 10 southwest Nebraska counties, is the defendant. It is scheduled to open this September at North Platte.

Counties Mailed Aircraft Owners List From State

Director of Aeronautics C. Howard Vest reported Friday that a list of aircraft owners has been mailed to all county assessors to aid them in proper assessments.

The 1967 Legislature passed a bill requiring the Department of Aeronautics to register only those aircraft which have been properly assessed.

The list was obtained from the Federal Aviation Administration.

Vest said a preliminary survey shows that several hundred aircraft now operated in the state have never been assessed or registered.

He added that aircraft owners who have declared their aircraft to the assessor by Feb. 28 will receive automatically their registration certificate. March 31 is the deadline for displaying 1968 decals.

Ranchers have threatened to close 400,000 acres of land to deer and turkey hunters if Kurtz remains. Kurtz has said "grievances" from the ranchers prompted the petition.

There also were published reports Dr. S. C. Eitrem, a Crawford veterinarian, might leave the community if Kurtz were retained. He is the only veterinarian in the town.

Kurtz listed the grievances as: —No ranchers in the area received permits to hunt antelope on their own land in 1967.

—The ranchers receive no compensation for game taken from their land.

—The game commission's purchase of land in the area, which has been taken off the tax rolls, boosted taxes on the ranchers' land.

Kurtz has said their complaints should be heard.

Steen said "those reasons are used to justify the petition. The complaints are not new. We've heard them many times. The real problem is the personality conflict between the vet and Kurtz."

Whether the vet goes or stays "is a matter John Kurtz can not and will not decide," Steen said.

Steen described Kurtz as a "man with strong friends and strong enemies. He is that type of individual."

The matter will be reviewed in "due time" by the commission, its director said.

Wahoo—Congressman Robert V. Denney, R-Neb., was appointed to the Board of Trustees of John F. Kennedy College here, according to President Ted Dillow.

Marijuana Charge Supported By Jury

Charles Robert Heiser was found guilty Friday of possession of cannabis (marijuana) by a Lancaster District Court jury after 40 minutes' deliberation.

Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin deferred sentencing pending a motion for a new trial by the defense.

Heiser, 23, of 2010 F, testifying in his own behalf Friday, refuted earlier testimony by police officers, and told the jury that he asked the officers when they came to the door if they had a search warrant.

'Kept On Pushing'

He said that after Karen Andrews, who reportedly summoned police to the location, opened the door for the police against his will, the police "pushed me back and kept on pushing to gain entrance."

He further testified that when Detective Ivan Waples started up the stairs, "I said they couldn't search any more without a search warrant."

Heiser said he then started up the stairs after Detective Waples, "protesting all the way."

Police Capt. Lowell Sellmeyer testified Thursday that when police asked if they might search the house, Heiser replied in the affirmative and said he would help them do so.

Testimony Denied

Denying police testimony, the defendant told the jury that he never had an opportunity to open a window and throw anything out the window and that he had never seen the plastic container, the contents of which was found to be marijuana, around the household prior to police officers bringing it in from outside.

Capt. Sellmeyer testified earlier that two containers—one of which was the plastic canister Heiser denied having seen before—filled with marijuana were found outside the Heiser home on the night of Nov. 17 and early morning Nov. 18 when police raided the house and arrested eight in connection with presence of marijuana.

Detective Paul Jacobson had testified that when he arrived on the scene he saw an individual he identified as Heiser throw two containers out a window.

Legality Of Clean Waters Commission Is Questioned

The office of Atty. Gen. Clarence A. H. Meyer filed with the Supreme Court Friday a brief attacking the constitutionality of the 1967 Clean Waters Commission Act.

The friendly test case has been brought at the request of Gov. Norbert Tiemann to determine whether the municipal sewage treatment financing procedures authorized by the 1967 enabling act, passed by the Legislature as LB884, are constitutional.

Recited in the brief prepared by Deputy Atty. Gen. Gerald S. Vitamvas were a string of alleged legal defects.

Deficit Financing

Included was the allegation that the bill authorizes a type of deficit financing prohibited by the constitution, which places a $100,000 limit on state indebtedness.

The same argument has been used in attacking — in a similar test suit — the 1967 legislation authorizing the Game Commission to issue up to $2.5 million in bonds to finance construction of a new headquarters complex in Lincoln.

The Clean Waters Commission created by LB884 would assist municipalities in planning and financing sewage disposal plants. The commission would issue revenue bonds although the bonds would be paid off by money received from the participating municipalities. The coordinated financing would be expected to reduce interest costs.

In Friday's brief, Vitamvas maintained that the actions of the commission would be "the acts of the state." He noted the act places no limit on the amount the commission may borrow, and the Legislature might have to appropriate from the general fund any deficiencies that might develop.

The brief complained also that the act: —Authorizes an unconstitutional continuing appropriation.

—Authorizes expenditure of state funds without specific appropriations.

—Illegally permits the loaning of the state's credit.

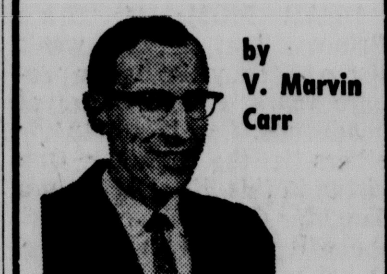

—Unconstitutionally delegates to the commission both legislative and judicial powers.

Defending the commission in the litigation is Omaha attorney Robert Kutak.

Suburbia Has No Dull Seasons

Regardless of how you rank the seasons — whether your favorite is spring, summer, fall or winter — at some time or other you probably have remarked that you wished it was some other season than whatever it happens to be at the time.

Winter, we think, gets more than its share of these disparaging comments, for despite the inconvenience it can and often does cause, the season does have its good points — And after all, there are disadvantages to every part of the year.

How dull it would be to live in a climate of constant summer! If you think otherwise (recalling shoveling walks and getting stuck on icy streets), we ask you to remember the other things, too.

Recall, for instance, the time you went to bed with the world outside a drab, brown, barren place — and when you peered out of the window in the morning, it had been transformed into a white wonderland, soft, peaceful, and lovely. Or remember those winter days when the previous evening's freezing rain turned your street into a lace-and-crystal avenue.

And anyone who has ever had a dog knows the laughable morning when the puppy confronts his first snowfall, and doesn't know what to do about it. We could go on and on, but you get the general idea — winter can be wonderful. It is, after all, simply how you look at it, so try looking at it with a different slant for awhile, and who knows? You may even learn to love it.

We know of at least one suburban miss who enjoys February whenever it rolls around. She is Melissa Otto, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claton H. Otto, Jr., and February to Melissa means "birthday".

In celebration of her February 2 anniversary, Melissa invited 16 of her school friends to a party, for which she was hostess yesterday evening, at her Lincoln Heights home. Pizza and salad were enjoyed by all, in addition to the traditional birthday cake — this one with thirteen candles on it.

In the Meadow Lane news this morning is the story of two very happy parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Reimers who, on January 22 welcomed their third son into the family.

While Mrs. Reimers was at Lincoln General with young Brent Charles Reimers, the rest of the family was helped out by the presence of Brent's grandmother, Mrs. R. H. Reimers. The visitor has since returned to her Ogallala home, carrying news to Mr. Reimers of their newest grandson.

Brent's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Williams of Yuma, Colo.

Mrs. Williams, we understand, arrived in Lincoln last Sunday to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Reimers, and will return to Colorado sometime next week.

Completing the trio of "snips and snails" for the Reimers family are Todd, 7, and Bryce, 4.

In addition to her studies at the University of Nebraska, Miss Susan Steele has an extra responsibility this month. She will be the "woman of the house" at the East-ridge home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Keith Steele, while Mrs. Steele heads for Minnesota.

Mrs. Steele will be visiting with two Minnesota families during her month's absence from Lincoln — one is in Minneapolis, the other St. Cloud.

First stop will be Minneapolis, where Mrs. Steele will be the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pawlcy, and where she also will be able to visit with her granddaughter, Aimee.

In St. Cloud, Mrs. Steele will be visiting with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Steele, and two more grandchildren, Kimberly and John. This will be a "first" for Mrs. Steele, as far as young John is concerned. He arrived on Dec. 8, so is just now making the acquaintance of his grandmother.

Town Talk

Now we know. So will you in about another minute. We're talking about Mrs. Harper Sibley of Rochester, N.Y., of course — one of Life Magazine's 'Grande Dames' — and the wedding she attended in Lincoln.

The wedding was last June 17 — The bride was Miss Kathy Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Johnson of 3429 E. Pershing Rd., and the bridegroom was Henry Brevort Cannon III, Mrs. Sibley's grandson.

It seems that Mr. Cannon met the girl he wanted to marry in New York City where she had gone following her graduation from the University of Michigan and where she began career at Random House. If you have your issue of Life you will find quite a story on Mrs. Sibley — and two pictures — one of Mrs. Sibley sitting in a church — the other taken with her grandchildren and great-grandchildren at her summer estate, Cherry Valley Farms. Mrs. Sibley and two of the smallest small fry are in the center of a ring-around the rosy group of older children. The young lady wearing white dress, touched with black — back to the camera — is Mrs. Henry Brevort Cannon, III — former Kathy Johnson. Did we tell you that she is an Alpha Phi at Michigan? She is.

There is news on the home front this morning — Mr. and Mrs. Clark Pace of New York City arrived in Lincoln Friday evening for a brief visit with Mr. Pace's mother, Mrs. I. E. O. Pace, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pace.

MISS AVA LYNNE CHERRY

Of considerable interest to Lincoln will be the announcement made this morning by Dr. and Mrs. L. Dwight Cherry of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ava Lynne, to Lt. James Daniel O'Rourke, son of Mr. and Mrs. James M. O'Rourke of Gagetown, Mich.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Feb. 24, in Virginia.

Miss Cherry is a junior at Michigan State University, at Lansing, where she is majoring in computer science, and where she is a member of the student chapter of the Association of Computer Machines.

Lt. O'Rourke was graduated from Michigan State University last June, and now is a Data Control Officer with the United States Air Force, and is stationed at TAC Headquarters, Langley Air Force Base, Virginia.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

Here is a challenging hand where it is difficult to figure out whether it would be better to be declarer at four spades or to be a defender against that contract, assuming best play by both sides.

West leads the king of diamonds. East overtaking with the ace and returning the deuce to the ten. West continues with the queen, and it is plain to see that if dummy ruffs East will over-ruff and return a trump to eventually defeat the contract one trick.

So declarer, instead of ruffing, discards a club from dummy on the queen of diamonds. If East also discards a club, South will later ruff two hearts in dummy to make the contract, while if East discards a heart, South can establish his fourth heart by merely ruffing one heart in dummy.

It therefore looks as though declarer must triumph regardless of what East discards, but, actually, the situation is not quite that simple. East does discard a heart, whereupon West continues with a fourth round of diamonds.

Declarer does best by ruffing in dummy, but East then finds the best defensive play of discarding still another heart as South also discards a heart.

At this point it looks as though the defense has finally won the battle, since declarer cannot ruff a heart in dummy without being overruffed, but South has still another weapon up his sleeve good enough to triumph in the end.

He draws five rounds of trumps and West, on the last trump, must choose a discard from the Q-10-6 of hearts and A-10 of clubs.

If he discards a heart, declarer cashes the A-K of hearts to win the rest of the tricks; if West discards the ten of clubs, declarer enters dummy with a heart, ruffs the jack of clubs, feeling the ace, and in that way also makes the rest of the tricks.

When the members of the Deborah Avery Chapter, DAR, met for luncheon at Hotel Cornhusker on Friday there were some very special guests—the winners of Deborah Avery Chapter's 'Good Citizenship essay contest, and their mothers.

The contest winner was Miss Mary Kay Quinlan, a Southeast High School senior and the runnerup was Miss Cassie Spohn, a senior at Lincoln High School.

Deborah Avery Chapter will present all of the qualifications of its contest winners to the contest committee of the Nebraska Society of DAR.

ABBY: lesson is needed

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you do with a 13-year-old daughter who is the most selfish, inconsiderate girl in the world? For example, when "The Princess" takes a bath, she thinks she has to have the water up to her neck. There are eight of us in this family, Abby, and she doesn't care if there is no hot water left for anybody else or not.

I wish you would put this in your column as "The Princess" never misses it. She won't listen to me.

BOSTON MOM

DEAR MOM: If "The Princess," at age 13, won't listen to you, you'd better prepare yourself for some royal headaches. Consideration for others is the Number One virtue in this life, and if your daughter doesn't learn it fast she will probably always be in hot water up to her neck.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to you, I have fallen in love with a soldier in Vietnam. I wrote to Sgt. Jefferson, who gave my letter to a "lonesome soldier" named Neil, and we have been writing daily.

Neil said that since my first letter to him he felt that he had something to come home for. He is now in the states in a hospital, so we couldn't keep our date to meet on Christmas day but I plan to fly out to Hamilton Air Force Base and surprise him.

I have never seen him, Abby, but I care deeply for him. I couldn't care less if he is short or tall, or fat or thin, or if he has two heads and three eyes. If he will have me, I will be his for the rest of my life. Thank you, Dear Abby, for bringing us together.

PAT Q.
(A GRATEFUL NURSE)

DEAR PAT: And thank you for your wonderful letter. I hope you will keep me informed of further progress.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. # Community Boasts Two Professionals

... ELBA FOOTBALL CAPITAL?

Elba (UPI) — Residents of this community claim their town to be the "Professional Football Capital of the Country."

And they may have good reason. The town's population is only 180, and it can claim two professional football players. That's one for each 90 inhabitants.

Both are members of the New York Jets. Randy Rasmussen, a 1967 Kearney State College graduate and local son, was drafted by the Jets in the 12th round of the football draft last spring. He was the starting left offensive guard for the second-place Eastern Division American Football League team last fall.

This week another Kearney State and Elba product, Lee Jacobsen, was selected by the Jets in the fifth round of the draft.

Jacobsen, who said he "couldn't believe it" when told of his selection, is a 200-pound linebacker and fullback at Kearney.

He is also a member of the Kearney track and field team and is on the baseball team. As such, he will not sign a contract until the current playing season is ended. He is a shot putter on the indoor track team and will switch to baseball later this spring.

By lettering in the two sports he will become Kearney State's first 12-letter winner since Eugene Armstrong lettered in football, basketball and track in 1954-55.

Jacobsen, a physical education major with a business minor, did his student teaching in Wood River the last half of the first semester.

Chosen co-captain of the undefeated 1967 Antelope grid team, Jacobsen led in scoring with 73 points even though he played linebacker. He scored five touchdowns as second team fullback, kicked 40 points and one field goal. He was the team's leading scorer all four years, scoring 61, 51, 81 and 73 points for a total of 266.

As a senior he was the leading defensive player with nine interceptions and fumble recoveries.

A rightfielder on last year's finalists in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, he hit .289, including eight doubles. He had 13 stolen bases.

OSU No. 1 Defensively

New York City—Oklahoma State has moved into the No. 1 spot among the nation's major basketball colleges in team defense, according to latest statistics from the National Collegiate Sports Services here.

The Cowboys, who face Nebraska tonight at Stillwater, are allowing opponents only 58.7 points per game.

Kansas ranks sixth at 60.0 and Kansas State is 14th at 63.5, giving the Big Eight three of the nation's top teams in team defense.

Nebraska ranks seventh in free throw percentage at a .759 pace with Husker Tom Back 11th among individuals in free throw percentage with an .864 mark.

Creighton's junior forward Bob Portman is fifth in scoring with a 28.6 average and tied for 18th in rebounding at 15.8 per game with UCLA's Lew Alcindor.

Magazine Pays Honor To NWU Cheerleaders

Nebraska Wesleyan University's cheerleaders were featured this month with a cover picture on "The Megaphone", the official publication of the National Cheerleaders Association.

The magazine is printed four times each school year and was founded and is printed by Lawrence Herkimer of Dallas, Tex.

The NWU girls are Linda Ator, Arapahoe; Karen Knipe, Auburn; Jody Anderson, Waverly; Sherry Zeigenbein, Omaha; and Pat Plautz, Garland.

NU Trackmen Take On 'Cats

Nebraska's track team opens its indoor portion of the 1968 season at Manhattan, Kan., tonight with a dual encounter with the Kansas State Wildcats.

Coach Frank Sevigne figures to field one of his more potent teams this season, with heavy strength in the sprints and middle distances.

"Overall, we've got more quality depth, as well as some outstanding individuals who can become fine Big Eight performers," Sevigne said.

Co-captaining the Cornhuskers are hurdler Dave Kudron, Columbus senior, and high jumper Steve Krebs, Diller senior.

Sevigne has indicated the gaping hole left by the graduation of Big Eight and NCAA triple crown winner Charlie Greene will be filled adequately by veteran Clifton Forbes and sophomore John Motley, with help also from footballers Mike Green and Dick Davis.

Another football star, Joe Orduna, will make his track debut in the high hurdles, a spot where the former Omaha Central ace sparked as a prepster.

The pole vault will feature a pair of transfers in Husker livery. Boyd Epley, a product of Phoenix, J.C., previously has cleared 15 feet, while Terry Medjo, a transfer from Kearney State Teachers College, is in the 14-foot class.

NWU Streak In Jeopardy

... WAYNE REMATCH

Nebraska Wesleyan University's four-game basketball win streak will be put to an acid test tonight when Wayne State invades the Capital City.

Tipoff is slated for 7:30 p.m. at NWU's Taylor Gym. And it doesn't take a very long look at a previous record book to indicate the Plainsmen will have their work cut out for them.

Back on Dec. 9, Wesleyan tangled with the Wildcats at Wayne and came out on the short end of an 80-77 count in overtime.

Veteran Wesleyan coach Irv Peterson felt NWU played one of its better games that night with the exception of some late turnovers that allowed Wayne to win.

And that night it was two subs who came off the bench to haunt the Plainsmen and score over half of Wayne's points.

Bill Kruse, a hot-shooting guard, was the real villain with 24 points and fellow bench man Bill Goodwin added 19. By the same token, Wayne starters Joel Parks and Ron Hintz hit only two and three points respectively.

Wayne was undefeated at the time and led Wesleyan by 10 points several times in the first half. But NWU fought back to lead most of the second half, including a six-point bulge with just over a minute left in regulation play.

Peterson is expected to stick with his same starting quintet Saturday night as it has produced four straight wins on the home maps. That will include Kim Busch, Ken Ahl, Bob Vasatka, and the Hahn brothers — Dick and Bob.

Ahl continues to pace the NWU point parade for the second year in a row. He has 329 points in 15 games for a 21.9 mark. Bob Hahn is at 20.1 with 302 counters and has picked off 195 missed shots for a big edge in that department.

Nebraska's Guard Ready For Call-Up

Any additional call-up of reserves for the Korean or Vietnam crisis could involve the Nebraska National Guard, its commanding officer said Friday.

Maj. Gen. Lyle A. Welch, state adjutant general, said the Nebraska Guardsmen, including the select force 67th Infantry Brigade, are prepared for the possibility.

"We have had no indication from the Defense Department about a call-up but these men know why they are in the Guard and what they have been training for," Gen. Welch said.

Good Job

"If they are called upon, they will do a job — and a damn good one. Their eyes will be wide open."

Gen. Welch commented after the White House announced President Johnson is considering mobilizing more reserve specialists and extending military enlistments to help meet mounting pressures in Southeast Asia. He activated 14,600 Navy and Air Force reservists last week.

Gen. Welch said Nebraska's 67th Infantry Brigade is still a part of the country's Select Reserve Force (SRF) that has been undergoing intensive training for the past two years.

Combat Ready

The brigade, which includes a unit from northwest Iowa, is at full combat readiness and 99% of authorized strength with 4,650 men, Gen. Welch added.

"We are well trained and ready for any eventuality," he said. "I only hope that if we are called, we are given a mission and not held some place doing nothing but waiting."

Gen. Welch said the brigade is scheduled to be phased out of the SRF program this May under a National Guard reorganization program. He did not know if current international problems would force a delay in the plans.

No Information

"There has been no information on that question," he said. "Everyone in the brigade is thoughtful about this."

Gen. Welch said all Nebraska Guardsmen are taking a "very professional attitude" toward possible call to active duty.

"The leaders are dedicated individuals with no compulsory military obligation and not a one has offered to resign," he said.

"None of our men are panicky and of that we're real proud. It demonstrates they are well adjusted and well trained."

Carpenter's Drug Charges Said Not Grasped By Regent

The president of the University of Nebraska Board of Regents said Friday he has no idea what Sen. Terry Carpenter is referring to in statements that the board is trying to cover up drug abuses at the school.

"I don't know what in the world he has on his mind," said Dr. B. N. Greenberg of York. "We feel we are abiding by the rules of the University and complying with the law."

Carpenter said he received a letter from the Regents earlier this week explaining their policy on drugs on the campus and that he viewed it as an attempt to "sweep the problem under the rug."

Releases Text

The University released the text of the letter after Carpenter's criticism.

It said that illegal use of narcotics has always been opposed by the Regents and that the policy adopted last Sept. 12 against drug abuse appears sufficient to handle problems in this area.

"The policy leaves no doubt as to where the University

Bouncing Ball Trip To Help Heart Charity

A bouncing basketball is scheduled to give a week-end boost to Lincoln's 1968 charity Heart Fund drive.

As a promotion, 25 members of the pledge class of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity at the University of Nebraska were to leave Omaha late Friday and bounce a basketball all the way to Lincoln.

They figured the "Bounce to a Heart Fund Success" trip would take about 20 hours and 100,000 bounces, roughly equivalent to the number of times an average person's heart beats in one day.

On arrival in Lincoln Saturday afternoon, the dribblers will be met at the governor's mansion by Gov. Norbert Tiemann.

Capping the effort will be a Heart Fund dance at Pershing Auditorium Saturday night, sponsored by pledges of the fraternity and of Alpha Phi sorority.

Presidential Candidate Is Now In GOP

Americus Liberator, self-described "long shot" candidate for president, has informed the secretary of state's office of a switch in his registration from independent to Republican in hopes of landing a spot on the May 14 primary ballot.

Liberator, a 57-year-old ranch hand from Valentine, said he took the action reluctantly but that there appeared to be no alternative since independents will not be recognized in the balloting for president.

Allen J. Beermann, deputy secretary of state, said chances are "quite remote" Liberator will be placed on the ballot through a non-petition method since candidates must be generally advocated or recognized nationally for this procedure.

However, he added, Liberator could get on the ballot by securing 100 valid voter signatures in each of the state's three congressional districts backing his candidacy.

Liberator told the secretary of state he leans toward neither major political party.

"I am strictly a non-political, non-partisan, realist, grass roots conservative, statesman - minded independent," he said.

"My main goal is to prove, or disprove, to the public whether or not our government still retains as one of its vital principles that this is a land of opportunities for equal chance to achieve or prove one's worth."
